UI Health Sciences, Engineering, Business and Law
Women Faculty Development Conference

Life-Work Integration: An Essential Competency in Academia

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 2018
Radisson Hotel & Conference Center, Coralville

THE FOUR-WAY VIEW

The purpose of this workshop is to improve performance in all parts of life – work, home, community, and self – by finding mutual value among them. We provide an in-depth exploration of the Total Leadership approach to life-work integration, through interactive presentations and exercises. We will explore what it means for you to align your values and actions by taking the Four-Way View.

Total Leadership

We review the Total Leadership principles and method, and how they apply to your life in academia.

- Be Real: act with authenticity by clarifying what's important
- Be Whole: act with integrity by recognizing and respecting the whole person
- Be Innovative: act with creativity by experimenting with how things get done

Learning Objectives

- Understand Total Leadership principles and method
- Explore being real – acting with authenticity by clarifying what's important
- Articulate your personal vision – your legacy – and your values
- Take the four-way view – work, home, community, and self (mind, body, spirit)
- Explore being whole – acting with integrity by respecting the whole person
- Explore being innovative – acting with creativity
- Plan to design an experiment intended to produce a “four-way win”
- Practice peer coaching in trios to obtain feedback and mutual support for experiments
